LIFE PURPOSE WORKSHEET

Q1.

For me, having regrets on my retirement day depend entirely on my financial stability. If I am financially secure enough to comfortably live the rest of the my life, I will have zero regrets. Instead with my sharp memory, I will fondly remember all the friends and colleagues who supported my career. The only way I would feel regret and stress is if I lack financial stability and have to worry about surviving the next month without a salary. Therefore, I wish to spend my life working hard for a secure, better future (Insha Allah) & spend less time on things that do not contribute to that stability. Regardless of the financial situation on that day, I will say Bismillah & thank Allah for providing me the opportunity & strength to complete my job & responsibilities effectively.

Q2,

As a muslim & a critical thinker, I believe that nothing happens without the will of Allah. If I won the lottery, it would be because Allah chose to bless me. Therefore, my very first step would be to spend a percentage of that money in the way of Allah (charity), as Allah promises in the Quran to multiply & return it. Secondly, I would take my my mother whom I love the most - go a lot of shopping & do everything possible to ensure we live a very happy life. Finally I would invest a good portion of the money into a new business to secure my future & grow my wealth over time.

Q3.

If I knew I only had 6 months to live, my absolute first priority would be to meet every single person I know & ask for their forgiveness if I ever hurt them. I believe in "ultuqooq ul board" (the rights of people), which must be forgiven by the people themselves. Secondly, I would spend my nights praying. Tahajjud, asking Allah to forgive all my sins, whether done knowingly or unknowingly. Lastly, I would seek forgiveness from my parents, because, I believe, that nothing is possible without their prayers & blessings.

Q4.

As a child, my biggest dream was to become an Electrical Engineer and honestly lead power distribution Companies. Being a resident of Karachi, I always wished to reform our own K-Electric. Everyone complains about the power issues we face daily, but very few step up to actually fix the ~~stop~~ system. My unexpressed passion was to solve this massive problem honestly so that the residents of Karachi & our future generation wouldn't have to suffer, & instead, they would remember me with their prayers (duas).

Q5:

1. The deep Spiritual peace (Qalbi Sukoon)
I feel right after ~~of~~ Namaz, which instantly removes all my stress, anxiety.
2. Using my own problem-solving skills to independently solve a complex, large-scale real-life issue, relying on no one but Allah.
The joy or happiness of ~~be~~ fixing it on my own is unmatched.
3. Seeing my mother genuinely happy with my actions & hearing her praise me.
The happiness I get from her smile
cannot be described in words.
4. Facing Extreme stress or grief, but feeling a unique happiness in knowing that this hardship is bringing me closer to Allah. Because it makes me turn to Him for help.
5. Talking to Allah at night in solitude, sharing all my problems & accepting with humility
On my own & that only He can solve them.

Q6.

I want to be remembered as a man of strict rules (a disciplinarian) but with a very soft & loving heart. My legacy would be helping anyone in trouble, especially ensuring that no one else has to suffer the hardships I have faced in my own life.

I would successfully complete and deploy a massive, complex MERN Stack project that solves a real-world problem perfectly without any bugs. Just because consistency.

Q8.

I would always start my day by thanking Allah for his special grace & blessings, ensuring strict punctuality with my 5 daily prayers. My work routine would involve managing my software house from morning until lunch time. After that, I will spend my evenings enjoying my life with my parents & my wife.
